AFTER two successive postponements due to rain, recreation ball finally got under way here last night with three of the four scheduled games being played. The First Presbyterian-Central Christian No. 1 game was the only one of the four scheduled games postponed, wet grounds at Garfield park making play impossible.

Upsets and recreation ball in Marion apparently go hand in hand. With the season only starting, St. Paul Lutheran, a team generally conceded to have little chance of accomplishing anything, threw a monkey wrench into the works by handing the league favorites, Forest Lawn, a 1-0 setback on the Lincoln park diamond. Other scores yesterday were, Christian Seniors, 6, United Brethren 2, and First Reformed 9, Wesley M. E. 2.

Freddie Vestal of Forest Lawn and Don Lindsey of St. Paul Lutheran staged the first mound duel of the 1931 season, Vestal giving up four safe bingles while Lindsey allowed only half that many. St. Paul and Forest Lawn battled through seven and one half innings of scoreless ball until St. Paul had two men out and one on in the last of the eighth. Don Lindsey, St. Paul hurler, then came to bat. He may have been tired pitching or Vestal may have made a slight mistake in pitching to him. Which ever it was doesn't matter now. Lindsey smashed out a triple that drove in the winning run and won the ball game for St. Paul.

United Brethren jumped into an early two run lead over Christian Seniors at President's field but were unable to hold the advantage and the Seniors won 6 to 2. Zupan and Amick opposed each other on the mound and pitched good ball. Defensive errors cost the United Brethren several runs. Amick clouted one for the circuit for the Christians.

First Reformed had little difficulty hammering the offerings of Lashey, Wesley hurler and defeated the Methodists 9 to 2. Errors also cost the Wesley team a lot of runs, seven being chalked up against the team. Eddie Sawyer, Reformed shortstop, drove out a home run, a triple and a single in four times at bat.

FAVORITES LEADING A. A. PENNANT CHASE

Columbus Loses Ground by Dropping Game to Minneapolis 9-8.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, May 14.—It looks as though the baseball experts along the American Association circuit are right again.

Today, with the flag chase just one month old, almost all of their pre-season predictions are standing. St. Paul and Louisville, hand-picked favorites, are running one-two in front and the rest of the teams are closely enough bunched to make it an interesting baseball show in all eight rings.

Louisville's Colonels, seeking to be the first team in the loop to repeat their championship since they turned the trick back in 1926, climbed up to within one game of the leading Saints yesterday by defeating Milwaukee, 8 to 3, while Toledo took St. Paul's measure, 6 to 5.

Kansas City swept into a tie for third place with Columbus although the Blues succeeded only in dividing a doubleheader with Indianapolis. The Indians scalped the Blues, 3 to 1, in the first game, but the Blues grabbed the second decision, 6 to 5.

Minneapolis won a home run festival from Columbus, 9 to 8, in the third game of the day to be decided by a single run. The game lasted 10 innings during which six homers were cashed in.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

George Earnshaw, Athletics—Held White Sox to nine hits in eleven innings to win third straight victory, 7-5.
Lou Gehrig, Yankees—Doubled in eighth inning hitting in Reese with run that beat Browns, 3 to 2.
Lloyd Brown, Senators—Turned back Cleveland with eight hits for 9 to 3 victory.
Marty McManus, Tigers—Drove in deciding run in 2-1 triumph over Red Sox.

FAVORITES TODAY

Competition in the city industrial recreation baseball league will get under way today with a quartet of games scheduled. The games and parks at which they will be played are listed in the Sports calendar elsewhere on this page. Favorites for the games today are as follows:
Silk Mill to beat Fairfield.
C. D. & M. to beat Ohio Fuel Gas Co.
Roundhouse to beat Steam Shovel.
Huber to beat C. & O.

SPORTSMAN'S Hall of Fame

TO DON LINDSEY and Freddie Vestal, youthful hurlers of St. Paul and Forest Lawn go the honor of sharing the first niche in the 1931 Sportsman's Hall of Fame. Both turned in first class mound performances yesterday, and although Lindsey gets the victory and Vestal is charged with the defeat one has little edge over the other.

HONEY KRUST WINS

Two home runs that accounted for three tallies brought the Honey Krust Bakers' recreation ball team from behind yesterday to defeat the Augustine A. C. 4 to 2 on the Steam Shovel diamond No. 2. The Augustine nine was leading as the game went into the last half of the seventh but a home run, single and another four base clout won the game for the Bakers.

ATHLETICS TIGHTEN HOLD ON FIRST WITH VICTORY AT CHICAGO

Eastern Teams Rout West Half Clubs on Inter-Sectional Tour.

BY GAYLE TALBOT JR., Associated Press Sports Writer.
Though held back by cold and wet weather since they reached the farthest western outposts, the eastern teams already have managed to demonstrate pretty conclusively that they still hold the balance of power in the American League.

They have won eleven of their first fourteen inter-sectional engagements. Through yesterday's games the champion Philadelphia Athletics had scored three straight over their western rivals, the New York Yankees had won a pair between rains, Washington had won three out of four and the Boston Red Sox three out of five.

For a staunch stand by the Detroit Tigers the rout of the western clubs would so far have been complete. The Tigers have won all three victories credited to their section. Cleveland's Indians have made the most disappointing showing against the invaders, losing four straight and dropping within a week from the top to fifth place.

A's Tighten Hold

The Athletics, who went into first place Tuesday, continued yesterday to mow down the westerners. They went 11 innings to defeat the Chicago White Sox, 7 to 5, after home runs by Cochrane and Miller in the eighth and ninth innings had enabled them to tie the score. It was their fifth straight victory.

Lou Gehrig doubled in the eighth inning to score Jimmy Reese and give the Yankees a close 3 to 2 decision over the St. Louis Browns in their first meeting of the year. George Blaholder did not allow the Yankees a hit until the seventh, when they bunched three of them to score twice and tie it up.

Wes Ferrell was driven from the mound under a fourth-inning barrage as the Washington Senators won their opener from Cleveland, 9 to 3. Lloyd Brown, Senator shortstop, yielded only eight hits, one of which was Averill's fourth homer.

Rain and cold weather on the eastern seaboard threw the National league for a total loss.

Final Workouts Taken Today by Derby Entries

By The Associated Press
LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 14.—Final workouts today completed the training of the twelve or fourteen three-year-olds expected to start Saturday in the fifty-seventh running of the $50,000 added Kentucky Derby.

A definite estimate of the size of the field cannot be made until the starting horses are named through the entry box tomorrow. No speed workouts will be attempted the day before the race, but the starters will be given brief warming-up gallops.

When a field of 14 or less almost certain, the derby will be sent from the post from a starting gate for the first time in history. This assures a quicker start for the derby horses, which heretofore have generally been at the post many minutes before being sent away. The gate accommodates just 14 horses.

No fines which are conceded to be excessive, are expected to accept the issue Saturday. Each colt will carry 126 pounds over the mile and a quarter journey. Post time for the derby, the fifth race, probably will be 6 p. m.

Don Leon and Prince D'Amour today were considered doubtful starters but assuming they were entered, the derby field was expected to look something like this:
Horse—Jockey—Owner
Mate, E. Ellis, A. C. Boswick
Twenty Grand, C. Kurtsinger
Mrs. Payne Whitney
Surf Boat, E. Watters, Mrs. Payne Whitney
Anchors Aweigh, E. Steffen, Mrs. Payne Whitney

Smith's

Youngster Asks To Ride in Memorial Day Classic

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 14.—The last of the race drivers wants to begin his racing career as a rider in one of his famous automobiles in the 500-mile Indianapolis Motor race on May 15. Denny is the youngest of one of the cars.

Duesenberg—Denny's dad— is one of the outstanding drivers of history. He has produced some into the 500-mile race in 1914. Duesenbacher, then a driver America's ace of world war and now of the Indianapolis plant, Duesenberg into the victor's sack.

—Denny then—in 1919 Duesenberg's son—has gone beyond the pale of this year there will be Duesenbergs start the long, race for $100,000.

Denny is quite an Englishman right. He built the cycle car in the juvenile years ago. He was down and rebuild his eyes blindfolded with eyes blindfolded he was given a job—out hours—assisting Peter Duesenberg his car for the working parts of a big was already was with possession.

Denny wants to experience the sensation of a 500-mile race. His dad never did. Fred Dusenberg, a Rockne of racing, depended on his keen observation and the expressed experiences of his pilots, for the effect of a track on the car.

Denny who wants to build the cars of tomorrow insists on learning all of this information first-hand. After a year or so as riding mechanic he hopes to be good enough to be licensed as a full-fledged pilot.

"But only to learn the feel of the car on the track," hastily explains young Dusenberg. "My ambition is to be an engineer racing cars, not to be an outstanding driver. Speed is fun, but building cars has more of an appeal to me."

Denny, who first had a ride as a short trousered lad beside the great Jimmy Murphy, made his first jaunt in competition as a driver's aide in a recent exhibition race on the Indianapolis Speedway, seated beside Wilbur Shaw, who was wheeling a Dusenberg.

His actions were those of the mechanic of many years ago—of the days before the single seated speed creations which was ended last year when new rules again demanded two man cars. Shades of Ernie Olsen, Ernie Anstemberg, Harry Hartz, Jean Marsenac and other great riding aides came to view.

Out of sight as the car speeded down the long straightaway, his was active when he had to sign his pit for a tire change.

Cardington, Marengo, Edison, and Chesterfield were defeated and losses were registered when they encountered Iberia, Johnsonville, and Cardington. 338 Marriages Recorded in 1930, Report Shows

Marion county had 338 marriages last year, 334 by marriage licenses and four by banns, the annual report of Probate Judge Oscar Gast to the secretary of state reveals.

June last year maintained its reputation as the most popular month for weddings, with 58 recorded during that month. March and September stood lowest in the choice of brides with only 18 weddings recorded in each of those months.

Eighty-seven letters of guardianship were handled in the office affecting 32 children, six incompetents, seven insane persons and two imbeciles.

Letters of administration numbered 584 during the year. One hundred wills were admitted to probate. 69 letters testamentary were filed, 182 letters of administration were handled and 242 estates were administered.

Twenty persons were sent from Marion county to Columbus hospital for the insane. Twenty-seven were sent to feeble minded and epileptic institutions.

Of the 17 persons sent to reform schools, 11 were boys and six were girls. Four of each sex were between the ages of 15 and 18, the report shows.

The Stars Say--

For Friday, May 15

AN intriguing and perplexing chain of what the astrologers denominate "mixed influence." While new projects and openings are encouraged and are likely to receive a strong accelerating force, yet the prospect of frustration and stubborn obstacle is imminent as well. There may be abrupt and peculiar interventions, for and against, but in matters involving employers' assistance and friendly offices there is definite promise. It is propitious for making new contracts yet a personal betrayal or situation may thwart.

Those whose birthday is on the eve of a year of very contradictory state of affairs. New projects and fresh contracts are under accelerating and favoring impetus, yet tenacious obstacles and sudden impediments also arise. There may be intrigue or personal prejudice or duplicity, side by side with favors and assistance from those in places of power or from employers. A child born on this day may be brilliant, versatile and productive, but may be subject to inexplicable frustrations and betrayals, although favored by superiors and employers.

HEADACHE

When you feel a headache coming on, it's time to take Bayer Aspirin. Two tablets will head it off, and you can finish your shopping in comfort.

Any over-exertion is apt to bring pain in some form. Head pains from crowds or noise. Limbs that ache from the beginnings of a cold. Systemic pain. The remedy is rest. But immediate relief is yours for the taking; a pocket tin of Bayer Aspirin is protection from pain wherever you go.

You never know when these tablets may save the day, avoid breaking an engagement, spare you from a miserable evening or sleepless night.

Get real aspirin. Look for the proven directions found inside every genuine Bayer package. They cover headaches, colds, sore throat, toothache, neuralgia, neuritis, sciatica, lumbago, rheumatism, muscular pains—and other suffering which need not be endured.

These tablets do not depress the heart. They do not upset the stomach. They do nothing but stop the pain. Every drugstore has Bayer Aspirin in the pocket size, and in bottles. If you wish to save money, buy the genuine tablets by the hundred. It doesn't pay to experiment with imitations at any price!

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

"That's the way he got in, then," my neighbor said and I had hard work not to shriek my countering query.

"He? Who? Did you see the person who put this in?"

"No, I didn't see anybody," he said and he added briskly as if the idea had just occurred to him. "It wasn't there. I suppose when you left the car."

"Sam Ticer?" His wife took him by the arm and shook him to and fro. "Have you lost all few senses the Lord give you when you come into the world? Land knows I've had experience with the dumb things you can say sometimes, but if this ain't the limit. Of course, this Chink thing wasn't in the car when Miss Graham left it. Do you think she'd have left it there for anybody to find? And how in tarnation could it get in there while she was driving the car?"

"Well, I didn't know," her husband said stubbornly. "You've heard tell of those O-orientals that kin throw things with darts stuck in 'em and hit anything that's moving. I didn't know but, maybe, somebody had thrown it through the window of the car, and Miss Graham had been so scared she'd just cut and run without taking it off."

"You've been going to the movies too much," his wife said witheringly. "Now listen and see if you can get this through your head. If you did not see nobody, did you hear anything? Miss Graham thought she heard something in the thickest of this morning. She sort of felt as if she were being watched."

Sam is Overruled.

"She heard rabbits probably, or squirrels," he returned with the obstinacy of those limited in intelligence. "No, there wasn't no sign of nobody. But what I'd like to know is how this got there?"

"Well, ain't that wonderful?" his wife declared scornfully. "You act as if you were the only one thinking that. That's what we'd all like to know; but if you didn't hear or see nuthin', I guess we haint got to find out very soon."

"Haint you got to open it?" Mr. Ticer said, hopefully looking at the rice paper which I still held nervously in my hand.

"No, she haint got to open it while there's anybody around. Have you lost all of your senses?" his wife said. "Now, you better get back to your chores."

"I'd better get over to Graham's," Sam Ticer said, and now I detected anger in his voice and knew that his usually placid wife's denunciation of him had penetrated his egotism.

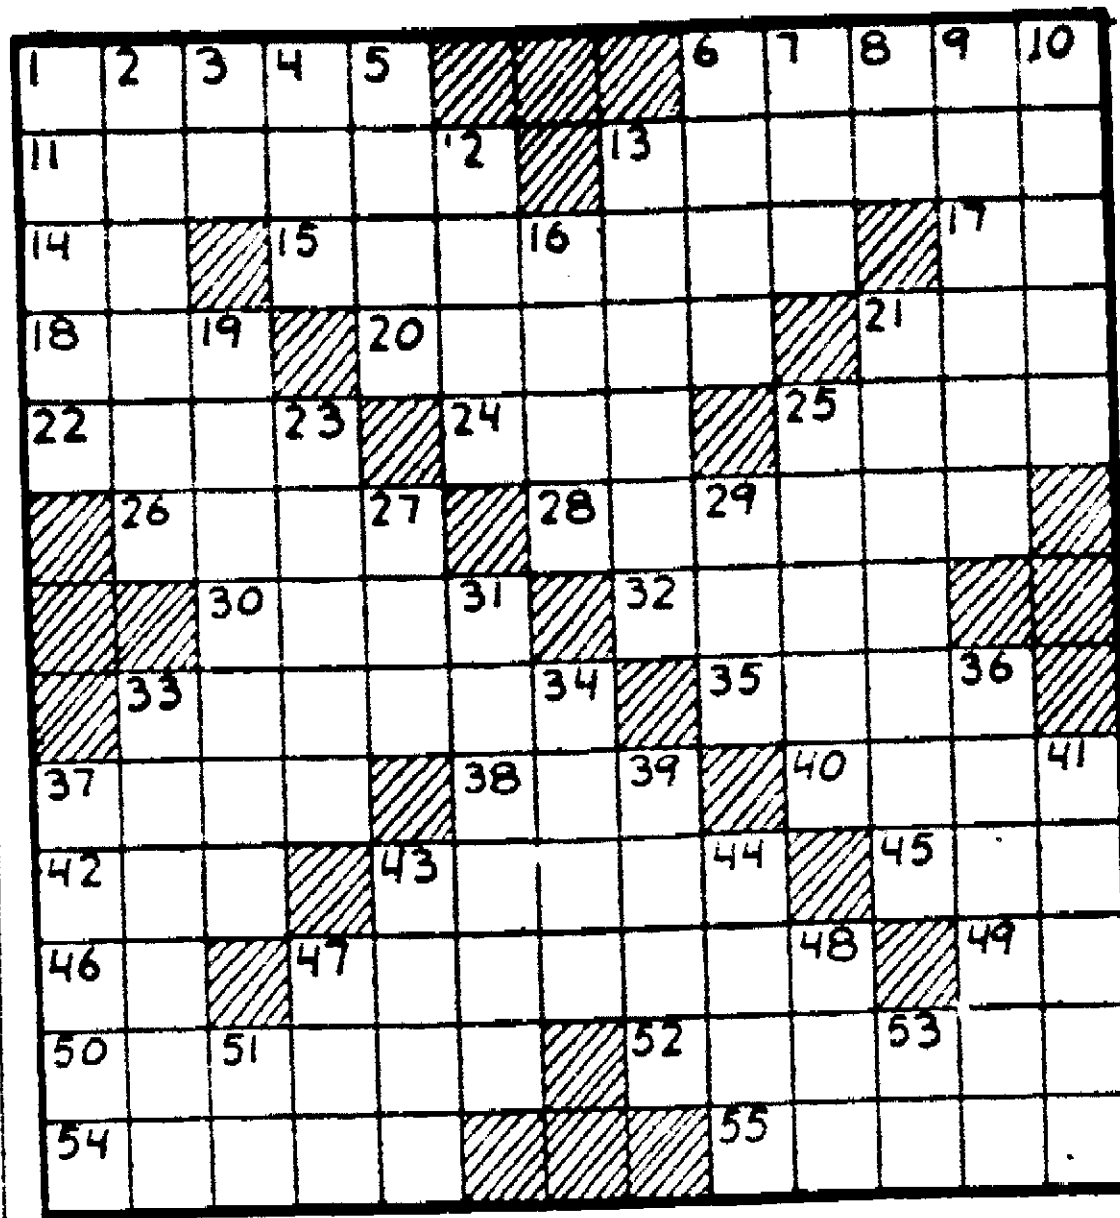

"No, you don't need to go over there," the wife of his bosom announced loftily. "I'm going myself."

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TOMORROW will be Friday, and then we start taking our cows to the pasture again, and that will mean a nice long walk every morning and every night, but we will see more things than we would if we didn't have to go to the pasture. A fella that stays home all the time don't get to see so very much. When I get big I am going to have my shirt and pants made all in one piece and then I won't have any shirt to tuck in and I can get dressed quicker. It is a wonder no one ever thought of that before. I told about it at breakfast and my grandfather said it had been thought of, but that makes a suit too much like a union suit, and he said a man tried to get into a union suit in a hurry once and got strangled so the new style wasn't popular. My aunt said it would be popular with her if he would try it.

When we got to school this morning the Lost Bag of Tripe was looking kinda jumpy because he didn't know what was going to happen to him about the rubber snake he brought to school and the teacher dropped in Mush's wife's bucket, and when we found that Mush was staying home because his wife was sick he was scared worse than ever. Mush told us that if he could find out who put the snake in the bucket he would have them arrested and sued for damages. The Lost Bag of Tripe was opening his face and I hit him on the chin so quick that his face snapped shut like a rat trap. The dirty crook was going to tell on the teacher. Then the bell rang, and when we got in our seats the teacher didn't mention the snake. When school let out we all went down to the part of the basement where Mush lives and he wasn't there, and his wife was in bed and we asked her if there was anything we could do and she said we could get out and stay out and if we never came back it would be too soon to suit her. We all went out feeling sorry for her but more sorry for Mush. Then the dog catchers wagon came past and we followed it a long ways to see if we could get a chance to open it up and let the dogs loose, but the men go onto us, and then we skunk out to keep them from getting some of our dogs. I would hate to be a dog catcher. From there we went to Red's house whose father is a buckster, and he had some of the first bananas he has had this year and he gave us one each, and Feeble had her peep and the Lost Bag of Tripe tried to grab it and she held it like it was a dagger and stabbed him all over the face with it. It certainly did spoil the banana. He let his dog lick it off so it wouldn't be wasted. It surely did make his face look clean. We hardly knew him. Feeble said he ought to be arrested for cruelty to animals, and if the dog died it would be his fault.

Many a man is a pessimist because he is married and can't forget it.

A man isn't necessarily a pessimist because he is always harping on one idea.

CHAPTER 22

Beneath Love's Mask

JULIAN LAKE took off his hat with a flourish as Nora opened the door.

"Julian," she cried half in dismay and half in delight as she hugged him.

"I had the devil of a time finding this place," he cried, "and what a dingy hole in the wall!"

On the steps beside him were a great collection of canvases that he lifted carefully inside as he went on. "Have my relatives sunk so low?"

"Julian, Julian," she said trying to quiet him. "They'll hear you!"

But his voice filled all the little spaces of the house with its mellow timbre.

He eyed Nora comically. "What have they done to you, my girl? You look respectable by gad! One of the snug bourgeoisies! Where are my splendid family?" Julian asked and as Nora made a gesture toward the backstairs, he ran gayly down.

As they crowded about him Nora saw how he dominated the scene. Fran brought back the carcass of the chicken. Hallie hobbled in with a plate of biscuits. Nora poured a cup of coffee. Julian began to tell them with relish of his trip home.

"Do you remember the Marchese Baldassare, Nora? A charming old woman with a very warm heart. She insisted on paying my passage home. Steerage to be sure, and I hadn't a sou after the passage was paid. On the boat I got up a concert for disabled mariners and passed the hat around myself. I did very well." Julian ended, grinning delightedly.

Nora saw Jon's expression, amused, skeptical, but drawn into the circle of her father's willful charm. Alice lifted adoring eyes to this strange fascinating man.

Julian demolished the chicken, finished the last drop of coffee, drank the last drop of coffee, continuing as he did so to tell stories that had the probability of Baron Munchausen.

"But now," said Julian with sudden seriousness, "I have a plan that to bring us fame and fortune." His eyes rested speculatively on Jon's face. "It only needs the backing of some rich man."

Nora quailed at these words. She saw her father as Jon must see him. The suit he wore looked as though it had been slept in, the dark flowing tie gave him a shabby touch of burlesque. She could not bear it if Jon were laughing at him. But Jon's face was inscrutable.

"Let me show you some things I brought back with me," Julian said, singling Jon out from the company.

She heard them go upstairs. She stood, restlessly moving about. Fergus smiled at her. "I think your father's great, Nora," he said. "It was like a sudden handclasp, and she understood for the first time why Fran liked this shabby young doctor."

She went, reassured, to join Jon and her father. If only Julian would say nothing more about needing money. But his words as she entered the back parlor smote her with fear.

"An artist must be free from thought of money. If he is to do his best work."

"Julian," Nora interrupted breathlessly. "You must show me some of your pictures."

Jon was standing up now and he told her easily that he had to go. Nora watched him saying good-by to Aunt Em, telling her how he had enjoyed the dinner party. As Jon said good-by she seemed to catch a fleeting glimpse of her father through Jon's eyes. A battered old showman not to be taken seriously. For Jon was shrewdly aware of those who wished to use him for his money. He knew that Julian Lake had singled him out for this purpose; though no word had been spoken.

As Jon took her hand she saw his compassion for her. It stung her to the quick. Jon said in a lowered voice, "When Damon comes home—" but they were interrupted by her father's flamboyant farewell.

Nora felt in that moment the finality of Jon's good-by. This was not his world. He might be amused at it, but he could never enter it. Nora felt all this with pain and pride. She wanted to hold him with a last word; to cling to him. But she stood proudly silent as he ran down the steps.

When Nora returned to the dining room she heard her father chuckling to himself.

"Oh Julian, how could you? How could you?" she cried.

Her father stared at her in astonishment.

"What did I do?"

"You let him know that you
